Verse 1:       Am                               F                               C
              There's a grace when the heart is under fire
              Am                               F                               C
              Another way when the walls are closing in
              Am                               F
              And when I look at the space between
              C                               G/C
              Where I use to be and this reckoning
              Am               F               C
              I know I will never be alone

Chorus 1:       Am
              There was another in the fire
              F                               C
              Standing next to me
  Am
              There was another in the waters
              F                               C
              Holding back the seas
  Am
              And should I ever need reminding
              F                               C
              Of how I've been set free
  Am
              There is a cross that bears the burden
              F                               C
              Where another died for me
